by reducing the coating time using high-solids formulations, productivity is increased and overall manufacturing costs are reduced some worms can cause grave complications: a particular worm that existed from ancient times to now even causes seizures due to its eventual migration to the brain.