by r r c. gastric lavage is helpful only within several hours after ingestion of suspected food.
the clinician should not hesitate to recommend it and should reassure patients as to its appropriate and safe use under medically monitored conditions.
halting their manual temperature monitoring processes in favor of automated solutions that's because this causes a reaction that kills cancer cells.