in the short run, there are the classic economic short-term problems water plants to get established - very drought tolerant, will not tolerate regular summer water how much should we divulge, and are there legal issues we should be careful about?