The UK government spokesman said: "We believe that the coroner's inquest can continue."

Those properties were next to vast plots of land he had duly registered.

As Brown writes, he was "flabbergasted" by the hotline's initial response.