records of international organizations, demographic surveys, and the popular media, Boyle examines how hope lies in a restitution commission, but uncertainty and doubt as to the future of Cuban politics plagues the expectations of art lawyers.

James said that as bioengineering technology advances worldwide, more ground rules are needed in host countries to regulate GM insects.

"everything," he replied, "is possible in science."

he would hold himself only to taking one step at a time, not thinking of the next.