there are no clear patterns of variation according to the parent's income, education level or race and ethnicity.

no further policies are due to expire in 2015.

inside hearing aids there are clever devices that are able to differentiate between background noise, such as traffic, and foreground noise, such as conversation.