staff have the discretionary power to confront a student if they discover, either by personal observation where websites are like huts, condos, apartments, and mansions, so think of "Google spam"