exercise, meditation, yoga, and a healthy diet have all been shown to help improve a person's mood, and therefore can help to treat depression